July 27, 2011 - Jan, Morgan & I (4.9 miles 1 hr:58 min)

Weather was good this morning.

We are trying to create a new trail that would go straight north. Ran into a web wire fence and turned around.

So, if any folks are up to it, find that trail (we did hang orange ribbons on it), cut the fence (it has orange ribbons on it as well) and let's make a new one straight north if possible.

Now that the hayfields have been cut, you can see more trail entrances. Lots of trails in this area that we have missed or simply forgotten about because you didn't see the entrances - they don't look like they have been ridden too much either. Nice and shady, take your pruners as some of them need clipped.

I'm going to try to head over on the 4-wheeler today to hang a bunch of orange ribbons on those trail entrances so we can start riding them again.